Gravity Trick

Things aren't always what they seem! Richard is a keen magician and took a little time to play with magic in space. He performed the world's first full magic show onboard the ISS and here is a clip of one rather fun trick he performed, making clever use of his weightlessness to surprise us. Of course it's not really a bubble of gravity – it's just cunning science masquerading as magic. How is it done? Well if we told you that would break the magicians' code, which applies even in space.
